

Fax Guidelines

Use of Faxes for Taxpayer Submissions

Background

The IRS is involved in a significant number of taxpayer contacts to perfect returns during the filing process to resolve issues identified in post-filing and secure delinquent returns. While the primary communication methods for these contacts have traditionally been mail, phone or personal interviews, the IRS is always seeking ways of communicating with taxpayers that will reduce taxpayer burden and improve organizational efficiency.

The fax guidelines, as stated below, apply only to taxpayers and their representatives who are engaged in an on-going contact with the IRS, such as an examination or resolving questions about tax returns that are being processed. The fax can only take place after a discussion with the IRS employee who is requesting the information. Based on requests from practitioners and other outside stakeholders, the IRS has adopted the following guidance on the acceptance of faxes by taxpayers and the practitioner community.

Faxes - General Guidelines

These general guidelines are applicable to all divisions and cover operations related to income tax, employment tax, excise tax, estate tax, gift tax, and generation skipping tax, as well as tax exempt and employee plans determinations.

- Filing of original tax returns via fax will only be allowed as part of a return perfection process (e.g. securing missing schedule or missing signature) initiated by the IRS or in the post-filing/non-filing activities described in next bullet. Tax returns can be received via fax as part of return perfection even if a taxpayer signature is required, provided that IRS contact with the taxpayer has been made and documented.
- Submission of documentation, forms, letters, and returns related to post-filing/non-filing inquiries and interactions can be allowed via fax based on taxpayer or IRS request unless there is a specific prohibition. This allowance applies to inquiries and interactions conducted by Field Assistance, Accounts Management, Compliance Services, Field Examination, Field Collection, Determinations Units, Appeals, and the Taxpayer Advocate Service, or related to post-submission inquiries and interactions conducted by Employee Plans or Exempt Organizations in connection with an application for a determination or a request for a ruling. Documentation, forms, letters, and returns can be received via fax in these circumstances even if a taxpayer signature is required, provided that IRS contact with the taxpayer has been made and documented.
- The IRS will not acknowledge faxes received from taxpayers in the course of tax administration activities by a return fax. Exceptions can be made in unusual circumstances as determined by IRS management.

- Guidance for some specific forms, documents, and letters can be found in Attachment 1. These items are listed individually based on a request by either outside stakeholders or internal groups. This list does not necessarily include all items that could be received by fax based on the general guidelines.
